Worcestershire Peculiars Wills Index

Certain parishes, manors and liberties were exempt from the jurisdiction of the bishop and archdeacon in whose diocese and archdeaconry they were situated. They were subject to the probate jurisdiction of others, such as an archbishop, another bishop, dean and chapter of a cathedral or lord of the manor. These places were known as Peculiars. Most were abolished in the late 1840s and now come under the jurisdiction of the diocesan bishop.

If a person held property in a peculiar parish, their will may have been proved in the peculiar court of that parish. Click on the link below to see an index to wills approved in the peculiar courts.
