Worcestershire Archaeology Day 2019

Worcestershire Archaeology Day will be here in The Hive for the first time instead of Worcester University. Increasing costs made it unfeasible to be there again, and level 0 in the Hive is now being used more and more for big events so we are able to host the event in our 'home'.

We will be on level 0, where we held the Archive day last November, the week after the Archaeology Day, so some of you have already been here. Tea and coffee will be provided by the café there too, so there will be a lot less moving about than the last few years at the breaks. Although not a lecture theatre it does have an audio-visual system and is used for events including talk by the university.

To avoid clashes with similar events we will be running it on Saturday 26 October, a couple of weeks earlier than usual.

Local societies will be invited as usual to bring displays.

The cost will be £20, a reduction on last year's price as we have been able to reduce costs.
